Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Notes on American Schools and Training Colleges The occasion of the appearance of these Notes will be best explained by quoting the following extract from my annual official report on English Training Colleges, presented to Parliament in 1889: Through the favor of your Lordships, I was permitted last year to extend the usual official holiday, and so to gratify a wish which I had long entertained, to visit some of the leading schools and colleges in America. I have appended to this report, in the form of some notes, such of the chief facts and considerations brought under my notice in the course of this journey as I thought most likely to prove interesting and suggestive to school managers, masters, and mistresses at home, especially to those who are concerned in the training of elementary teachers. This sentence indicates, I hope, with sufficient clearness, the very limited scope and pretensions of the notes which are here reprinted.
